ABOUT THE PUEBLO OF LAGUNA

The Pueblo of Laguna is located in the northwest region in the state of New Mexico. The capital of the pueblo, Laguna Village, is located approximately 50 miles west of the city of Albuquerque and 30 miles east of Grants. Interstate 40 runs through the heart of the reservation which covers a vast area of over 480,000 acres. The highway exits used to reach the pueblo are at exit numbers 117-Mesita Village, 114-Laguna Village, 108-Paraje Village and 104-Seama Village. The Laguna people are a Keresan speaking Native American tribe with a population of over 8700 members. Within the reservation boundaries in a somewhat centralized location, are the six main villages that have been established in the pueblo. The villages are: Laguna, Mesita, Paguete, Encinal, Paraje/Casa Blanca and Seama.

Today, the Laguna people still carry on the practice of farming and the raising of cattle and horses just like their ancestors of many years ago. More importantly, the Laguna people still practice their native traditional dances, customs and ceremonies that have been passed on from generation to generation. Also, for the most part, the practices are restricted to Native Americans only and are not for general public demonstration or display. Only during the annual pueblo fiestas or “feasts” and the Christmas holidays are times when the general public is welcome.

The people of Laguna have several traditional foods that are often prepared. They include: red and green chili stew, oven bread, frybread, tamales, blue corn enchiladas, parched corn, traditional pudding, gruel, chili pies and corn husk cakes. One of the well-known art forms in Laguna is pottery, along with traditional cross-stich work, handmade jewelry and wood carvings. The Laguna people desire to forever hold on to its customs and traditions which the people find most sacred. The Laguna people have great pride and respect for their heritage which helps them to continue on as a dignified and sovereign Native American tribe in this world.

Thank you or “dawaa’e” for experiencing the Pueblo of Laguna in the state of New Mexico in our Land of Enchantment.
